HOUSE SAFELY REPUBLICAN

Coolidge Will Have a Clear Majority of 24.

REPUBLICANS GAIN IN SENATE

New Alignment, According to Latest Returns, Will Show 55 Republicans, Democrats 40, Farmer Labor One. Coolidge to Have More Than 350 Votes in Electoral College—Latest Returns From the Election.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Latest returns from the election show that President Coolidge will have at least 367 votes in the electoral college. Only 266 are necessary to win.

The latest tabulation shows Coolidge 367, Davis 136, La Follette 13. Missouri, one of the doubtful commonwealths, turned definitely into the Coolidge column after wavering; and in Montana, where Senator La Follette was making a strong bid for the electoral votes, the tabulations showed steadily increasing margins for President Coolidge.

With the presidency settled, chief interest centered in the complexion of the next congress. The house is assuredly in Coolidge's hands, with material republican gains, three of them in Davis' home state of West Virginia. A clear majority of at least 24 votes in the house and a net gain of three in its senate margin appears to have fallen to the Republicans in the wake of the Coolidge landslide.

In the senate the Republican gains on the face of fairly convincing reports are as follows: In Colorado, R. E. Means was elected, together with Senator Phipps, while Senator Adams, Democrat, went down to defeat; Senator Stanley, Democrat, suffered defeat in Kentucky at the hands of Fred M. Sackett; in Minnesota Thomas D. Schall, Republican, appears to have beaten Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor, although the latter may upset this forecast when all the rural precincts are tabulated; Jack Walton, Democrat, was beaten in Oklahoma by W. B. Pine, Republican, and in Massachusetts, Speaker Gillett, Republican, defeated Senator David I. Walsh, Democrat.

Against these Republican gains the Democrats have won a seat in Iowa through apparent defeat of Senator Brookhart by Daniel F. Steck, while in New Mexico Senator Bursum, Republican, and friend of former Secretary of the Interior Fall, was going down to defeat before S. G. Bratton, Democrat, on the face of incomplete returns.

Senator Walsh, Montana, leader in the oil scandal probe, emerged successfully from a close escape from defeat.

The Alignment. If there is no change in this new alignment, the new senate will line up thus: Democrats 40, Republicans 55, Farmer-Labor 1.

The Republican figure is based on the assumption that Connecticut will return a Republican senator in its forthcoming special election to succeed the late Senator Brandegee, who committed suicide.

Senator La Follette had such a lead in Wisconsin on the basis of convincing returns that his home state's 13 electoral votes seemed to be safely his. There remained in doubt Montana, Nevada and New Mexico—all of which appeared likely to go into the Coolidge column.

Great as were Coolidge's pluralities, however, he was unable to prevent the victory of two popular Democratic state executives—Governor Al Smith of New York and Governor Vic Donahey of Ohio. Coolidge failed to measure up to Warren G. Harding's landslide in New York four years ago, but it was an overwhelming victory nevertheless in the Empire state, and that Smith should be returned by nearly 200,000 majority despite it testified to the latter's tremendous popularity. Donahey's re-election, despite the Coolidge sweep in Ohio, was less imposing, but equally striking.

La Follette's showing was a disappointment to his followers. He did, however, poll a large popular vote and appeared to have won second honors in California, Iowa, Minnesota, Colorado, North and South Dakota, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, and he ran strongly in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio.

Result in Kansas. Topeka, Kan., Nov. 6.—Pluralities of more than 200,000 were piled up in Kansas by President Coolidge and Senator Arthur Capper. They carried with them the entire Republican state and national tickets except two places in congress, one of which previously had been held by a Democrat.

CHARLES H. LEWIS

Elected Lieutenant Governor of Buckeye State.

NEW GOVERNORS

MARTIAL LAW AT NILES LIFTED BY DONAHEY

Military to Continue Investigation of Rioting.

Columbus, Nov. 6.—Governor Donahey issued a proclamation lifting qualified martial law which has ruled at Niles, Trumbull county, since Saturday.

The governor asserted the "conditions of rioting and tumult, which necessitated establishment of martial law, have ended, and peace and order have been restored." He also declared "the legally constituted civil authorities are able to resume control of the police functions of the city."

While martial law has been lifted, the military board of inquiry will continue until it completes its investigation of last Saturday's rioting.

Klan officials at Niles say three affidavits charging Sheriff John A. Thomas of Trumbull county with laxity in duty in connection with the rioting have been filed with Governor Donahey. Officials at the executive office said the governor has no power to remove a sheriff except for permitting a prisoner to escape or for failure to enforce prohibition laws.

General Benson W. Hough has returned from Niles. He would make no statement, but said he would file his confidential report to the governor within a few days.

Solidly Republican. Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge's lead in Pennsylvania continues to grow as returns from additional districts are received. His plurality over John W. Davis has passed the 800,000 mark. These gave Coolidge 1,119,898, Davis 309,847 and La Follette 215,303. Present indications are Pennsylvania will have a solid Republican delegation in congress, coming from 35 of the 36 districts showed Republican candidates elected.

VIC'S PLURALITY OVER 140,000

Donahey Increases His Lead Over Harry L. Davis.

NEW LEGISLATURE REPUBLICAN

Democrats in Minority in Both Branches of the New General Assembly—Cincinnati Voters Approve the City Manager Plan—All State Offices, With One Exception, in Republican Hands.

Columbus, Nov. 6.—Harry L. Davis, candidate for governor, was the only Republican defeated for state office, election returns show.

President Coolidge's plurality over John W. Davis is upward of 650,000. Governor Donahey leads Davis by 145,000. The vote for president in 3,275 precincts was: Coolidge 1,118,788, Davis 470,002, La Follette 348,447. In 8,234 precincts the gubernatorial standing was: Davis 859,164, Donahey 1,003,446.

Former Governor Davis ran low on his party ticket and Governor Donahey ran high on the Democratic ticket, as was the case in 1920, but this time Donahey carried county after county that Davis had captured four years ago and in others cut big Republican majorities down almost to the vanishing point. Davis lost Hamilton county, which he carried four years ago by 23,000 votes and which his backers had hoped would give him an equally big majority this year.

Davis lost Franklin county by 20,000 and Hamilton by 5,000. He carried Cuyahoga by 36,000 and Lucas by 100. Late returns failed to change the eventual result in any of the other contests for state offices. Secretary of State Brown, Treasurer Day, Auditor Tracy and Attorney General Crabbe, all Republicans, are all re-elected. Charles H. Lewis, nominee for lieutenant governor, defeated Lieutenant Governor Bloom, Democrat, who sought re-election.

Harry L. Conn of Van Wert, candidate for the short term in the supreme court, defeated Nicholas Klein, Cincinnati, independent, and is the only Democrat, except Donahey, to win state office. For the long term Judges Reynolds R. Kinkade of Toledo and Judge James E. Robinson, Republicans, won with relative ease.

Coolidge's Big Vote. Ohio apparently has given President Coolidge one of the largest pluralities ever given a presidential candidate in the state's history. His vote promises to exceed by at least 300,000 the combined vote given Davis and Robert La Follette. By reason of the three entries in the presidential race in Ohio, Coolidge's majority probably will not be as large as that of Warren G. Harding, 401,885, in 1920.

Republicans will retain control of both the house and the senate in the Eighty-sixth general assembly as the result of the election, according to reports compiled by the clerks of both houses. The senate apparently will be divided the same as in the present, Eighty-fifth assembly, 31 Republicans and four Democrats. The house will consist of 100 Republicans and 30 Democrats.

Cuyahoga county was carried by President Coolidge by about 20,000. La Follette for a time had maintained a lead in the county and it was thought he would carry it. It was admittedly his greatest stronghold in Ohio. The latest returns show the vote to have been as follows: Coolidge, 127,526; Davis, 23,771; La Follette, 107,449.

Cincinnati voters declared themselves in favor of a city manager plan by more than a two to one vote. The extra tax levy, which had been proposed to tide the city over the financial chasm in which the Hamilton county budget commission left it when it granted a sum of money wholly inadequate to care for the necessary requirements for a year, was snowed under by a better than two to one majority. However, the $8,000,000 school bond issue was carried by almost the same ratio. The two amendments to the city charter, providing for a council at large and a council of deputies, were defeated. The entire Republican ticket was elected.

Davis Thanks Bryan. New York, Nov. 6.—John W. Davis sent the following telegram to his running mate, Governor Bryan of Nebraska: "In this hour of defeat, let me thank you again for your assistance and support. We have made a clean and open fight and can accept the result without bitterness."

VIC DONAHEY

Re-elected Governor of Ohio by a Substantial Plurality.

GAS RATE APPROVED

Company May Appeal to the United States Court.

Columbus, Nov. 6.—Local voters by a 3 to 1 margin approved the city ordinance fixing the gas rate at 40 cents. By this action the 40-cent rate becomes effective, and the schedule of rates of 50-55 cents and 75 cents per month service charge, filed by the Columbus Gas and Fuel company with the public utilities commission, is automatically killed.

The present rate of 45-55-65 cents will give way to the 40-cent rate on Nov. 10, when a temporary agreement on the present rate will expire. However, the gas companies are expected to attempt to enjoin the 40-cent rate in the courts, and it is considered almost certain that an immediate appeal for injunction will be made in federal court. In case the companies appeal to federal court the court may fix a temporary rate to be charged pending the final decision on the injunction.

Storage Barns Destroyed. Newark, O., Nov. 6.—Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the large hay storage barn belonging to Harry Miller, in Croton, famous for many years as the home of the Hartford fair. The flames spread rapidly to the surrounding buildings, several of which were destroyed, entailing a loss of about $50,000.

Gas Proposal Defeated. London, O., Nov. 6.—Attempt of the London city council to grant the Ohio Fuel and Gas company an extra service charge of 50 cents a month to each consumer was snowed under in a referendum here, the voters registering a total of 1,555 votes against to 306 for the ordinance.

Democrat Finally Lands. Cadiz, O., Nov. 6.—John M. Rea, elected a county commissioner on the Democratic ticket, is the first Democrat to hold the office in Harrison county since his father, A. J. Rea, served, 42 years ago.

"MA" FERGUSON HAPPY

Says She Is Pleased With Her Election as Governor of Texas.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson described herself as the happiest woman in Texas, as the result of her election to the governorship. Mrs. Ferguson was elected as the returns brought her above the 100,000 mark. James E. "Pa" Ferguson took the affair quietly, but had a smile of triumph. "Now we can have a big inauguration ball," the governor-elect declared.

Mrs. Ferguson has never seen Dr. George C. Butte, her opponent. "I've got an awful cold," she said, "but I guess Butte feels worse than I do. I expect he is having a chill by this time." At her home in Temple, Tex., Mrs. Ferguson received the congratulations of hundreds of friends. "Pa" Ferguson declared: "It's a high-toned dunky I'm going to be."

Bryan Congratulates Dawes. Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska, defeated Democratic candidate for vice president, sent the following telegram to General Dawes, vice president-elect: "Please accept from Mrs. Bryan and myself congratulations on your decisive victory."

Congressman Langley Re-elected. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—Congressman John W. Langley, Republican, who is under two years' sentence in federal prison for conspiracy to sell and transport whisky illegally, was re-elected from the Tenth Kentucky district.

OHIO DELEGATION IN CONGRESS

Two Incumbents Defeated for Re-election.

RATIO REMAINS UNCHANGED

Sixteen Republicans and Six Democrats Will Represent the Buckeye State in the Next House—Congressman Sherwood Again the Victim of a Republican Landslide—Some Close Contests in Recent Election.

Columbus, Nov. 6.—There will be 16 Republicans and six Democrats in Ohio's delegation in the new congress. This ratio is the same as the present.

Returns show that in only two instances were incumbents defeated for re-election, one Democrat and one Republican. In the Ninth district (Toledo) the venerable Isaac R. Sherwood again was the victim of a Republican landslide and was forced to step aside for former Congressman W. W. Chalmers. Chalmers defeated Sherwood in 1920, when Harding carried the state by more than 400,000 majority, but he came back and ousted Chalmers in 1922. In the Eighth district Brooks Fletcher of Marion wrested the congressional honor from A. Clint Cole, evening up the defeat of Sherwood in the Ninth district.

Some close contests developed, particularly in the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Fourteenth districts. The fight between Charles J. Thompson, Republican, seeking re-election, and Frank C. Kniffin, Democrat, probably was the closest. The complete unofficial vote in the district indicated that Thompson has won by about 1,700 votes out of a total of approximately 30,000 cast.

According to the returns the Ohio delegation will be composed as follows:

First District—Nicholas Longworth, R. Second—A. E. Stephens, R. Third—Roy G. Fitzgerald, R. Fourth—W. T. Fitzgerald, R. Fifth—Charles J. Thompson, R. Sixth—Charles C. Kearns, R. Seventh—Charles Brand, R. Eighth—Thomas B. Fletcher, D. Ninth—W. W. Chalmers, R. Tenth—Thomas A. Jenkins, R. Eleventh—Mel G. Underwood, D. Twelfth—John C. Speaks, R. Thirteenth—James T. Beggs, R. Fourteenth—Martin L. Davey, D. Fifteenth—C. Ellis Moore, R. Sixteenth—John McSweeney, D. Seventeenth—Wm. M. Morgan, R. Eighteenth—Frank R. Murphy, R. Nineteenth—John G. Cooper, R. Twentieth—Charles A. Mooney, D. Twenty-first—Robert Crosser, D. Twenty-second—T. E. Burton, R.

State Senators. Returns indicate the election of the following to the Ohio senate:

First District—Joseph R. Gardner, Nettie B. Loughhead, E. C. McCreary, all Republicans. Third—G. M. Kunler, R. Fifth and Sixth—L. T. Marshall, R. Seventh and Eighth—R. J. Gillen, R. Ninth and Fourteenth—E. Lefever, R. Tenth—John M. Vorys and C. C. Chapplear, both Republicans. Eleventh and Twelfth—M. A. Clark, R. Thirteenth and Thirty-first—James R. Hopley, R. Fifteenth and Sixteenth—John Sherman Edwards, R. Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-eighth—Robert L. Adair, W. F. Garver, both Democrats. Twentieth and Twenty-second—H. M. Carpenter, John D. Hayes, both Republicans.

Twenty-first—Frank C. Wise, R. Twenty-third—R. E. Hemple, J. Eugene Roberts, both Republicans. Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth—Will R. Price, George E. Lauby, Arthur W. Sweeney, all Republicans. Twenty-fifth—Maude C. Walcott, Chester C. Bolton, L. G. Collier, Arthur H. Day, George H. Bender and L. L. Marshall, all Republicans. Twenty-seventh and Twenty-ninth—William R. Cummings, R. Thirtieth—Allen G. Agler, R. Thirty-second—Claron L. Shafer, R. Thirty-third—R. H. Powell, R. Thirty-fourth—W. W. Farnsworth, Homer A. Ramey, both Republicans.

First Woman Governor. Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 6.—The election of Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, Democrat, widow of the late Governor Ross, to the governorship of Wyoming is conceded. Mrs. Ross will be the first woman governor in the United States. Under the election law the successful candidate will take office as soon as she or she qualifies.

GRADED AMNESTY

Russian Exiles Who Fought Reds Are Invited to Return.

Montreal, Canada, Nov. 6.—In celebration of the seventh anniversary of the revolution, Nov. 7, the Russian government has offered amnesty and an invitation to return to Russia to thousands of Russians who participated in military and political activities against the revolution. All enlisted men and noncommissioned officers who formerly served in the military and naval forces of Denikin, Wrangel, Kolchak and other counter revolutionary leaders are included in the amnesty proclamation.

An official announcement of the amnesty issued by A. A. Yuzikoff, accredited representative of the Russian government in Montreal, states that former enemies of his government residing in Canada who wish to take advantage of the amnesty should make application between Nov. 7, 1924 and June 7, 1925. Those included in the terms of the amnesty will be provided with passports permitting their return to Russia without any of the usual consular fees. Denial of the United States to recognize Russia deprives many Russians in the United States of the benefit of the amnesty to political opponents proclaimed by the Russian government.

SLEMP MAY RETIRE

Changes Anticipated in President Coolidge's Official Family.

Washington, Nov. 6.—The first break in President Coolidge's official family is the resignation of C. Bascom Slemm, secretary to the president. Mr. Slemm has played an important part in the campaign, as well as handling the duties of his office, and he is said to want a rest. It is understood that he is planning a vacation, which will keep him in the south for the winter.

Several cabinet members are expected to resign in the near future. There have been definite indications that certain officers high in the government desired for various reasons to retire to private life. Some changes also are expected in various divisions of the executive departments to put into effect plans which the president is understood to feel are necessary, but no wholesale shifting of government officers is in sight. Such changes as come about will occur largely in the natural course of events.

Two Ohioans are said to be slated for positions, it is said. They are Carmi Thompson of Ohio and Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Cincinnati. Thompson likely will get a cabinet job and Longworth will be selected speaker of the house of representatives.

Parochial School Proposal Lost. Detroit, Nov. 6.—Amendments to the state constitution which were intended to banish parochial schools from Michigan, tax all incomes above $1,000 and reapportion the state so that Wayne county (Detroit), would receive greater representation in the state legislature, were defeated by votes of from two to one to five to one.

Bees have no ability to detect red; in other words, to bees red is the same as black. A noted biologist recently determined exactly all the colors and shades of color bees can see, by feeding experiments. In a few hours bees would learn that the professor put sweets in blue or yellow dishes, but not in gray dishes; and by varying the details it was easily possible to discover the color senses of the bees. They were found to confuse red and black so uniformly that it was evident both seemed black to the bees.

Be Careful When Choosing Lining

Interior of Coat Should Be Soft, Attractive, Serviceable and Easy.

Did you ever "buy a coat for its lining?" inquires a fashion correspondent in the Kansas City Star.

Then you're probably a devotee of lovely linings. You know that if you buy a handsome lining for a wrap, you are sure to see that the wrap itself and the gown you wear under it do not cheapen the lining. Every garment you have, however simple in style, must "live up" to that lining.

So, as you pause at the lining counter, select your material with an eye to beauty as well as durability. It is generally economical, anyway, to get as good a lining as you can afford. But it is also quite possible to get an inexpensive one that will both look and wear well.

The best economy is to buy a guaranteed silk for your lining provided you can afford one of good quality. A good grade of some well-wearing and good-looking mercerized cotton cloth, however, is infinitely preferable to a cheap silk.

Foulards and crepe de chine are rather expensive, but they are among the best of lining silks, since they are usually durable as well as beautiful.

Satin, like silk, is lovely if it is good satin. But loosely woven satin "catches on everything." Here, again, if you cannot afford the best, you will do well to choose your lining from mercerized materials in satin weave. Sateen, for instance, will not only outwear many a coat, but may be had in quite handsome effects.

Since your lining should be comfortable as well as ornamental, you will avoid any material that would be rough or "scratchy" against the neck and arms. The durability of stiff linings is uncertain, too, so softness is, in general, the first thing to look for in linings.

Firm weave, which will not permit of "roughing up" and pulling, is next; and then, don't forget that your coat lining must have a fast color, for the protection of the gowns and blouses you wear underneath it. Test the fastness of the color by rubbing a white handkerchief over the cloth. If any color comes off on your handkerchief, you may be sure that friction and perspiration would mean the ruin of any garments that come in contact with the material.

All in all, the requirements of a desirable lining, whether expensive or not, are that it should be soft, attractive, serviceable, not easily crushed, and, above all, comfortable.

Flies in Winter
Experiments have shown that the cold weather may be passed by the fly in the larval and pupal stages. British scientists, after prolonged experiments, failed to find a single overwintering adult house fly. But there is considerable discrepancy of observation on this subject, although it is true that the fly population would be overwhelming if the cold of winter did not check its activities.

Earth Likened to Flywheel
The naval observatory says that the earth is a globular mass, rigid as steel, revolving freely in space. There is no friction due to this rotation and no vibration. Consequently there is no noise. The earth is often likened to an immense flywheel, and to anyone who has seen a large flywheel of steel revolving silently, but with great rapidity, the comparison is striking.

Originally Egyptian
Adobe is a word traceable to an Egyptian hieroglyph signifying "brick." From this origin it became adob in Arabic, and in Spanish it became adobe, meaning "to daub or plaster." The term adobe was adopted in the United States from Mexico to designate the process of molding sun-dried bricks in a wooden frame for building houses and garden walls.

Lingerie Ribbon Strap Gift for Bride's Shower

A lingerie strap made of ribbon will make an attractive gift for a bride's shower. The strap is put around the piles of lingerie, and keeps the different garments in neat separate piles in the drawer. It may also be used in the linen closet for keeping the linen pieces stacked together. To make the strap get a piece of ribbon two inches wide and a yard and three-quarters long. After forming a loop with the ribbon the ends are run through a casing which is made from two pieces of cardboard as follows: Cut two pieces of cardboard two inches long and an inch and a half wide. Cover these pieces on both sides with white ribbon or silk. Work a little cross-stitch pattern on the silk which is to form the top side in the same color as the ribbon from which the strap is made. Sew the two pieces of covered cardboard together by overcasting the edges at the top and bottom, leaving a casing through which to run the ends of the ribbon.

Slave Bracelet's Lure

The lure of the slave bracelet is very great. Everywhere one sees it worn, from simple gold-linked bracelets to more elaborate affairs of colored enamels combined with gold. These look extremely well when worn in connection with the bracelets.

Valuable Timber Trees Destroyed

Practically All of Blight-Infected Areas of Chestnut Has Been Killed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
That the natural replacement of blight-killed chestnut by other valuable species is assured, is the opinion of C. F. Korstian, associate silvi-cultivist at the Appalachian forest experiment station, United States Department of Agriculture, Asheville, N.
C. Mr. Korstian has just returned from an extended investigation of blight-infected areas of southern New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, where practically all of the valuable chestnut timber has already been killed.
The unsightly gaps in the green cover of the forest that have become so conspicuous in chestnut regions as a result of the ravages of the blight mean a great deal more to the forester than the marring of woodland scenery, according to Mr. Korstian.
They represent an economic loss of forest productivity, which is especially serious on account of the alarming timber scarcity which is confronting the nation.

Of Nation-Wide Importance.
"What nature is doing to restock these gaps with young trees or by increased growth of the surrounding old timber is a matter of more than local importance," said Mr. Korstian.
"In southern Connecticut all of the mature chestnut is dead and the third generation of sprouts is now dying.
Here detailed studies of reproduction and growth were conducted on permanent plots, on some of which records are available as far back as 1904, the same year that the blight was first discovered in Bronx park, New York.
In this study it was found that the smaller blanks left in the forest through the death of the chestnut are fortunately being filled by the extension of the crowns of adjacent trees, principally oaks. These trees have shown an increased growth nearly twice as great as for the same length of time before the death of the chestnut.

"The larger openings are for the most part being filled by seedlings and sprouts of valuable species, such as the oaks, white ash, and hickory.
In northern New Jersey pine also is coming in naturally in the larger openings. Of all the species replacing chestnut, the chestnut oak is one of the most abundant and widely distributed from Connecticut to North Carolina.
Salvage Losses in Connecticut.
"In Connecticut the greater part of the chestnut has been salvaged at a satisfactory profit. In many cases the salvaging of the chestnut has been accompanied by an improvement cutting applied to the remaining hardwoods. By cutting at the same time some of the oaks which are lacking in vigor and otherwise undesirable from the standpoint of growth and future development of the forest, a nucleus of vigorous seed trees is left from which to reseed the area. The utilization of this material often makes it easier for the owner to sell the chestnut. In some of the more inaccessible parts of New Jersey and Pennsylvania timberland owners are not always finding it easy to market
the dead chestnut.
"The chestnut blight is now found throughout the entire southern Appalachian region as far south as northern Georgia and is spreading much more rapidly than originally predicted by forest pathologists," said Mr.
Korstian. "Within the next ten years large numbers of chestnuts will be killed by the blight. Owners of chestnut stumpage should therefore sell their timber as rapidly as suitable markets can be found for it."

Horses Work Cheaper on Alfalfa Hay and Corn
Eight teams of horses, each animal weighing from 1,500 to 2,000 pounds, and ranging in age from three to fifteen years, were used in the alfalfa tests conducted at the Michigan Agricultural college this past year, under the direction of R. S. Hudson. One horse in each of these teams was fed corn and alfalfa hay, while his mate received the usual feed of corn, oats and timothy.
Keeping accurate tab on the feed and weighing the horses each two weeks furnished information of real interest to all who use horse power.
The teams did field work, heavy hauling and such other work as would be required upon the average farm.
The eight horses eating corn, oats and timothy lost during the test a total of 570 pounds, while their mates, fed on corn and alfalfa, lost a total of only 20 pounds. The cost of feeding a horse corn, oats and hay was 37.4
cents per day, as compared with 32 cents when supplied corn and alfalfa.
Reduced to hours of work, the cost was 6 cents for the corn, oats and timothy ration and 5 cents for the corn and alfalfa combination.

Green Feed for Fowls
Green feed during the fall and early winter are essential for both egg production and growing chickens. It can be easily provided by sowing wheat or rye at this season of the year. The bare yards about the poultry buildings and adjacent territory could not be put to better use than the raising of this succulent, vitamin-rich, green feed for the poultry.

CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Fitzpatrick Collected $626.20 in Fines and Licenses.

The city council met in regular session Wednesday evening, November 5, with President John C. Goeller, presiding, and all members present.

Mr. Baker, as chairman of the committee on department of public service reported by recommending the placing of an arc light at the intersection of Pickaway street with Third avenue, just as soon as the finances of the city will permit and this report was accepted.

Mayor Fitzpatrick reported fines, licenses and fees collected during the month of October in the sum of $626.20. A communication from the department of public welfare recommending that the city abandon the present city prison and send all prisoners to the county jail, or erect a small, modern city jail which will conform with the State Building code, was received and read. This was referred to the committee on department of public safety together with the director of public service.

Safety director, George E. Caskey, asked council to consider the matter of removing the old furnace in the cellar of the fire department building, then placing brick and concrete on the floor so as to prevent water from coming up into the cellar as it is now doing. Mr. Baker offered a motion which was seconded that this matter be referred to the committee on department of public safety together with the director of public safety. Motion carried.

In the matter of improving West High street, the clerk reported that the report of the assessing committee heretofore appointed by council to assess the cost against the property owners, had been published and that there had been no objections filed; thereupon an ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of West High street, was passed under suspension of the rules.

A certificate from the city auditor giving the abstract of the votes cast at the election held on November 4, 1924, in the city of Circleville, for the proposed initiative ordinance fixing the standard of time for the said city was received and read. Mr. Marion offered a motion that the certificate of the city auditor be received and that the same together with the ordinance fixing the standard of time for the city of Circleville to be known as Central Standard time be published according to law. The motion carried.

Chairman Baker reported that the committee had had a meeting with the attorneys in the matter of the contract with the Pickaway Water company and that the committee would be able to make a report just as soon as they could have a meeting with the attorneys representing the Water company.

Peacock's Dignity Is Ruffled by Sparrows

Washington.—The dignified setting of Whistler's famous "Peacock Room," in the Freer building, was shattered recently when about forty sparrows attacked a young peacock strutting about the courtyard.

It happened when the three big peacocks, who add tone and color to the central court, left the young bird eating out of an earthenware jar. The fledgling was helpless against the sparrows that surrounded him, cheeping angrily. Finally he decided to retreat and tried to retain some shreds of dignity by strutting off. The sparrows, however, circled about him, flapping their wings and nipping him with their beaks. Around and around the fountain he ran, desperately frightened.

One of the older peacocks saw the trouble from a distance and came to the rescue. Spreading his magnificent plumage, he charged the sparrows and they scattered, flying away in all directions.

SCIENTIST FINDS STRANGE BEASTS

Unknown Species Unearthed in Mongolia.

Erga, Mongolia.—Prof. Peter Kozloff, Russian explorer, has discovered near here an enormous number of skeletons of hitherto unknown animals and many human remains which lead him to believe that Mongolia may have been the birthplace of man and the point of origin of a considerable part of the animal and reptile world.

Among the fossils already unearthed by Professor Kozloff and his assistants are those of 25 quadrupeds of undesigned species, 15 birds of varying sizes, 100 reptiles, snakes and fishes and more than 1,000 insects of giant size.

Professor Kozloff last June discovered several remarkable tombs near here belonging to the Chinese emperors and princes who ruled Mongolia at a time antedating the pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen of Egypt. It will also be remembered that Prof. Roy Chapman Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History, New York city, startled the scientific world last year by discovering nests of dinosaur eggs and showed that the central Asian plateau is a paleontological garden of Eden.

Kozloff also found in one of the royal tombs bricks of compressed tea and grains of wheat still quite fit for human consumption, despite the fact that they have lain in the tombs many thousands of years.

In another section of this district Professor Kozloff excavated the grave of a woman of the nobility, containing a number of bronze articles of exquisite craftsmanship and several silk tapestries of superb texture which depict Greek and Roman figures on horseback.

The nature of his discoveries is so important that the Russian scientist has decided to remain in Mongolia indefinitely, postponing until next year his expedition into Tibet, to resume exploration work in the forgotten city of Kharakhote, which he unearthed some years ago. Three archeologists and biologists are now en route here from Leningrad to assist Professor Kozloff.

Strange Kind of Worm Can Live Only in Ice

Tacoma, Wash.—A species of worm that lives only in the ice and cannot withstand even the heat of a human hand, has been found and photographed by a scientific expedition that recently went into the Olympic mountains.

The ice on Dodwell-Rixon pass in the Olympics was found literally alive with these worms. They are black, thin and about half an inch long. When the sun is out they crawl into the interior of the ice, where the temperature is lower. Scientists with the party said that so far as they knew these worms never had been found before in the United States.

While the worms were photographed, it was impossible to get any of them out of the mountains alive. When the ice surrounding them begins to melt, they die immediately. What they live on is still a mystery.

Find Stone Nursing Bottle Used by Romans

Folkstone, England.—Proof that babies of the Roman expansion era were accustomed to the luxury of the nursing bottle has been found during excavating on the site of an ancient Roman city near Folkstone. The archeologists have unearthed the nipple end of a baby's bottle made of stone, and of a shape identical with the latest in nursing bottles.

Buoy Travels 8700 Miles

Washington.—Life buoy No. 9 broke loose from its moorings in the Indian channel of the Plata river, Argentina, on July 3, 1918. It was recovered by Australian authorities about 100 miles north of Fremantle, West Australia, on June 29, 1923. The drift was across the whole Indian ocean, a total distance by the shortest route of 8,700 miles.

AMUSEMENTS

A Travelogue that is more than a scenic—a picturization of one of the most thrilling adventures ever undertaken by man, is the Paramount picture, "Around the World in the Spee-jacks" which will be shown at the Met theater tonight and tomorrow.

This absorbing film is a marvel for realism. Everyone has heard of the "Spee-jacks" and here is their chance to see the famous craft sail with it through the voyage of 39,000 miles and to experience with Commodore and Mrs. Gowen the thrills and hardships they experienced, for there were hardships, if sleeping on the ground with field mice and ants for bedfellows mean anything.

The route taken by the "Spee-jacks" upon its sailing from New York harbor on August 21, 1921, was due south to Panama where the trip thruout the canal was made and the long wearisome trek cross the Pacific begun. Tahiti was the first stopping place, following by Samoa the Fiji Islands and New Caledonia. Then came Sydney, Australia, New Guinea, the Celebes Islands, Java, Singapore, Sumatra, Ceylon, Egypt, Crete, Greece, Sicily, Naples, Marseilles, Barcelona, Gibraltar, Cape Verde Islands, Porto Rico, Miami, Norfolk and return to New York.

Accompanying the Gowens on this trip was Ira J. Ongraham, former head cameraman for Burton Holmes, thru whose cooperation and skill the picture record of the voyage was made possible. Several friends of the Gowens' accompanied the party. The original crew was composed of young American college boys, many of whom however, dropped off along the way so that upon its return the "Spee-jacks" had what might be termed a varied and international complement. See the "Spee-jacks" and see the world.

Their Need for Safety Pins.
An archeologist recently dug up a safety pin from the ruins of ancient Babylon. Judging from the pictures in the Babylonian section of the histories, however, it seems that safety pins were worn mostly by the grownups in those times.

A USED CAR.

A used car, or a secondhand car is just as good as the firm that sells it. Its performance is just as good as the reputation of the man that sells it.

Your car is a used car, does that place any stigma on it? Used cars have gotten into bad repute because of the manner in which they were sold and misrepresented.

Can you tell a used car when you see it; neither can anyone else.

People Voted For Reactionary Policies, Senator Says.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, defeated independent vice presidential candidate, declared in a statement that the people had voted for reactionary policies and for "what they believed would mean material gain for themselves," and that "exposure of corruption in Washington apparently had made no impression upon them." Wheeler said:

"The progressives made a fight and appealed to the ideals of the American people, without money and without organization, while the Republicans had money and organization and appealed to the pocketbooks of the people. The progressives didn't lose. No one can lose fighting for what is right. I am not surprised at the outcome. The people voted for reactionary policies."

HERE AND THERE

Four armed bandits held up the jewelry store of Simon Mazursky in New York and escaped with jewelry and diamonds of an estimated value of $125,000.

A severe epidemic of typhoid fever and measles has broken out in Granada, Nicaragua. The city has a population of 15,000 and there are 1,500 cases of infectious diseases among the children alone, due to unsanitary conditions and contaminated water.

Federal department of labor declined to deport Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight boxer. It held there was no proof of wrongdoing on the part of Firpo.

Uses for Old Corks

A place in the kitchen drawer should be reserved for odd corks, for there are many household uses to which they may be put. Should a door fit badly and chatter distractingly on windy days, a slice cut from a large cork, nailed onto the lintel and painted to match will effectually silence it without proving a disfigurement.

Ink From the Maple

A homemade ink was, in earlier days, sometimes made from the bark of red maple by boiling it and adding sulphate of iron, says the American Tree association. It contains considerable tannin, and, at one time, was occasionally employed in dyeing.

KEEPING WELL

NURSING THE BABY

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

(c) 1924, Western Newspaper Union

The best food for babies is mother's milk. With all our increased knowledge and our constantly growing ability to improve on nature, no chemist has ever been able to make any food which is as good for the new-born human animal as the milk its mother provides for it. It is not only perfectly suited for the baby at birth, but it changes automatically as the baby grows, giving it just what it needs for health and growth.

Every mother should nurse her baby. It is not only better for the baby but is also better for the mother. If the mother has taken proper care of herself before the baby came, she will have all the food the baby needs ready for it. The breast-fed baby is healthier than the bottle-fed baby.

There are, of course, some conditions under which the mother should not nurse her baby. If she herself is suffering from any disease of the heart or kidneys, then the milk is probably unfit for the baby and the nursing is too severe a drain on the mother. If the mother has some serious disease, such as tuberculosis, the baby should not be breast fed.

If the mother has an abscess of the breast the child should be nursed at the other breast until the abscess has healed. If the nipples become sore, they should be washed gently before and after nursing, with a solution of boracic acid. This can be made by getting a package of boracic acid crystals at the drug store, pouring them into a large, clean bottle or jar and filling the bottle with boiled water. The crystals will settle at the bottom of the bottle and the water above will form a clear solution.

There may be some condition in the child itself which makes nursing impossible. Premature infants, those born at seven months, babies which are too feeble to nurse, or which have some defect such as a hare-lip or cleft palate, may be unable to nurse. In such case, the milk should be drawn from the mother's breast with a breast pump and fed to the baby with a medicine dropper or nursing bottle. These should be kept scrupulously clean.

During the first 48 hours of the baby's life it should be fed every four hours. An ounce and a half (about two tablespoonfuls) of warm boiled water should also be given every four hours from a nursing bottle.

As early as possible the baby should be taught regular habits of feeding. This is not only best for the baby, but also for the mother, as it gives her an opportunity to get the rest she needs. Even if the baby is asleep when its regular nursing time comes, it should be awakened and fed. The feeding period should not be more than 20 minutes. The baby should be fed from one breast at each feeding and the breast should be completely emptied.

COOLIDGE GRATEFUL

Expresses Thanks to the People For His Big Victory.

Washington, Nov. 6.—President Coolidge expressed thanks to the American people on the occasion of his election to the presidency. He said: "I can only express my simple thanks to all those who have contributed to this result and acknowledge that it has been brought to pass through the works of a divine providence, of which I am but one instrument." Mr. Coolidge personally gave the statement to white house correspondents, whom he called into his office in the first contact with any one except his own staff since the election result became known.

La Follette's Statement.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 6.—In commenting on the election results, Senator Robert M. La Follette said: "The loss of this one battle in the age-long struggle is but an incident. So far as I am personally concerned, I am enlisted for life in the struggle. The American people have chosen to remain in power the reactionary Republican administration with a record of corruption and subservience to the dictates of organized monopoly. The progressives will not be dismayed by this result. We have just begun to fight."

TRINKETS OF SLAIN SOLDIERS UNCLAIMED

5,000 in Collection at the War Department.

Washington.—There are more than 5,000 poignant human interest stories buried here in Washington—unwritten because no "outsider" can find words potent enough, untold because the persons most interested cannot be found to tell them. Each story is materially represented by a trinket, paper wrapped, lying in a special room of the War department.

War stories they are—tales of soldiers who have fought in battles here and in other lands, who have died in service and whose relatives have never been found. Their trinkets, their jewels and keepsakes, taken from their still forms on fields of battle, all are there awaiting for the call of someone who has the right to claim them.

Good-luck charms there are by hundreds—charms which failed to keep their owners safe from harm. And there are decorations and medals of all kinds which testify to the valor of their winners, though there be none to show they were won.

Strange Stories Never to Be Told.

Strange are the stories that the trinkets would tell—if they could; stories of reckless desire to win distinction for someone back at home; tragedies of human hearts made rashly brave because someone did not care; debonnaire eagerness for experience—and heartbreak for countless families left at home to wait and hope.

There are hundreds of photographs of beautiful girls, smiling or sad-eyed, taken from breast pockets of soldiers on battlefields. There are diamond rings, fashioned for feminine hands, which went to the war with their purchasers because "someone" withheld her consent. There are remnants of bullets and toy cannons whittled of wood. There are costly gems, Liberty bonds and sums of money.

Families have doubtless been left destitute but could not be given the wealth these soldiers possessed. Other apparently worthless trinkets would be priceless to mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts of those who died.

But all have been unclaimed. John W. Robins has their charge. His is the task of locating relatives to whom those belongings of service men left on battlefields and in camps should be returned.

Although countless of the living have been connected with their dead, there are more than 5,000 packages whose should-be-owners among "the nearest of kin" cannot be found.

All wars are represented.

Tragic Romance Reached.

A battered dollar watch which had done service for many years and was indented with marks of shrapnel was recently sent to the fiancée of the boy who carried it when he died. It was all she had, save memories of the lover to whom she had not said good-by, because she was in Cuba when he sailed. A mother, comparatively young six years ago, now aged and grayed with grief, came to Robins for help in locating the grave of her boy. He had worn a ring bearing the family coat of arms, she said. After four years the boy was traced to a nameless grave in France.

A youthful lieutenant wore a sorority pin over his heart when he died. With only the name of the sorority search was started and inquiry at college after college finally located the girl to whom he had been engaged and made possible the marking of his grave.

Only a few weeks ago a family ring worn by a soldier of the Civil war was returned to the widow, who, for all these years, had thought it lost.

Of the thousands of soldiers who have died in the service of this country, the effects of more than three-fourths have been returned to those who have the right to them.

River Bandit Specializes in Women for Ransom

Galatz, Roumania.—Operating up and down the Danube river in a powerful motorboat armed with a machine gun, Terenti, notorious pirate, is still at large despite the united efforts of both Rumanian and Hungarian police to catch him. One of his late adventures was to fight his way through a company of Rumanian soldiers near Braila.

Terenti makes a specialty of capturing for ransom, and he prefers to gather in women and children of well-to-do families. He shows consideration to the poor fishermen and farmers along the river, who are friendly to him as a result, and warn him of the activities of the police. He recently found two girls who had been bathing in the river near Galatz and whisked them away in his speedy boat before they could make an outcry.

Improved methods of manufacture are responsible, it was stated. The cost of the free treatment was $34,484 for the first 12 months.

Father and Son
as Comrades

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

(Copyright.)

THERE was a comradeship between young Ben Bowen and his father, Henry Bowen, which had become finer since the death of Ben's young mother some years previously.

Ben, who was twenty-two, and his father, of forty-two, had much in common. They both liked dancing.

In fact, it was Henry Bowen who first discovered Betty Wunderlin.

The discovery occurred at a dance at a club of which both men were members. Betty had come to the dance with her father, who was a long-time friend of Henry, and upon being introduced to Henry they had danced several times together.

Then Ben, liking Betty's looks immensely, had rushed up and been introduced, and secured several dances himself.

After the dance, Henry Bowen sauntered into his son's room and looked at Ben a bit uneasily.

"Ben," said Henry Bowen, "have you ever thought that I—er—that I might get married again some day?"

Ben whirled around sharply. "Sure I have," he answered bluntly. "Who's it going to be?"

"Not so fast—not so fast," cried Henry Bowen. "I'm not ready to step up to the altar just yet."

And, on the spur of the moment, Ben determined that when his father got married again he, too, would get married and start up a home of his own.

Perhaps Ben's sudden decision along this line was influenced by his introduction to Betty. And, as soon as he had come to the decision, he grabbed up his hat and tore out of the house to his high-powered roadster, which he soon flashed over the pavement at a law-defying speed toward Betty's home.

He saw her stepping from a car drawn up at the curbing in front of her home. The car belonged to Ben's father.

Upon making this discovery that it was from his father's car that Betty was stepping, Ben instantly determined to drive on. But Betty spied him and waved to him to stop.

"Oh, Ben," she cried, "wait a minute. I want to see you. I'm going to have a party." Betty explained animatedly, her pretty face alert and smiling. "It's going to be a dance—tomorrow night. I want you to come; will you?"

Ben looked at his father, who was smiling. Ben's father nodded.

"Sure," said Ben. "I like to dance. Who shall I bring?"

Betty named a pretty girl, a girl that Ben would have delighted to take if he hadn't so suddenly and impetuously become enamored of Betty.

"I asked your father to come," went on Betty brightly, "but he says he won't do it. I think your father's nice—he saw me shopping downtown and picked me up and brought me home."

She smiled gayly at Henry Bowen. And Ben, with a sudden tug at his heart, saw his father's face wreathed in smiles.

Was it Betty that Henry Bowen was planning to marry?

This question troubled Ben considerably during the early part of Betty's dance.

There came the sudden thought to him of running off with Betty at once, but he hesitated, inasmuch as his father had discovered Betty and might have been the first to fall in love with her.

The thing to do, apparently, was to not see Betty any more until the affair had had a chance to develop and he could see just where his father stood.

But not to see Betty was a rather difficult proposition, as the young set with whom she played had adopted Ben at once and claimed him as their own. So repeatedly Ben met Betty, and each time he did so he felt more deeply in love with her than ever.

So one somber afternoon, as they stood in her father's library, he said simply: "I'm going away, Betty."

"Going away?" she answered, as though not understanding him.

"Yes, to South America, or somewhere. Good-by!"

He didn't look at her as he shook her hand, so he didn't see the strained look in her eyes. And it was because his head was bent as he hurried from the library that he failed to see the long draperies at the library windows stirring strangely as he passed.

Straight to his home Ben went and started packing. And it was there he looked up some time later to see his father standing in the doorway and smiling at him.

"Hello, Ben," said his father, "going away? Not getting ready for a honeymoon, are you? You and Betty seem to be getting along so well. She'd make a fine wife for you, Ben!"

"For me?" repeated Ben, in throbbing amazement.

"Yes—nothing would please me more!" said Ben's father.

"Why," cried Ben, "I thought—that is, I was afraid—well, I'm tickled pink, that's all!"

And with a wild leap Ben was out of the room and tearing down the hall, intent upon reaching Betty just as speedily as he could.

And because Ben didn't look back he failed to see the dull anguish in his father's face and the mist that came into his father's eyes. A fine comradeship it was between Ben and his father—a fine, splendid comradeship, indeed.

Lesson for November 9

THE FEEDING OF THE FIVE THOUSAND

LESSON TEXT—John 6:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am the bread of life.—John 6:35.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Feeds Hungry People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Feeds Five Thousand.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christ Meeting Human Needs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Jesus Saves.

In the previous chapter, Jesus showed Himself to be the source of life. He here proves Himself to be the sustainer of life.

I. Jesus' Compassion for the Multitude (vv. 1-5, cf. Matt. 14:14). The sight of the crowd always incited the Lord's sympathy. He knew that they were as shepherdless sheep (Mark 6:34). They were going forth with no one to care for them. Besides, they were ignorant, so much so that they had no appreciation of Him. Added to this, was their awful physical hunger.

This condition roused the Savior's pity. This is true of the multitude today. The crowd surges about us daily as shepherdless sheep. There is no one to care for them. Then, too, they are ignorant. Sin has so thoroughly blinded them that they are not conscious of their lost condition. Down deep in their hearts is a hunger for truth and God. The millions of earth are hungering for Christ, though ignorant of their real needs.

II. The Lord's Conference With the Disciples Touching the People's Need (5-9).

This was not done for His benefit, for He knew what He would do (v. 6). He is equal to any occasion. His object in this conference may be summed up as follows:

1. To teach them their sense of obligation to the multitude. Men are slow to recognize their obligation to the great shepherdless multitude. We need to be taught the wonderful truth that God has made man His partner in the salvation of the world. We are workers together with God (II Cor. 6:1). It is a most solemn obligation to co-operate with Him in saving the millions who are groping in darkness.

2. To teach them their true helplessness in the face of such great needs. The loaves and fishes were as nothing in the presence of five thousand men besides women and children. Well might Andrew exclaim, "What are these among so many?" We may plant and water, but the increase comes entirely from God.

3. To teach them that their sufficiency is from the Lord. The mission worker needs to know that Christ is the only source of supply. Without Him we can do nothing (John 15:1-8). We can no more carry on the work ourselves than the branch can bear fruit without the vine. The branch supplies the life and strength for the production of fruit. Philip's arithmetic is of no use in the face of such need. The Lord Jesus has all power.

III. The Lord's Method of Accomplishing His Work (vv. 10-13).

We observe here the orderliness of Christ's work. He pauses to give thanks for their scanty supply, teaching us that we should always bring our abilities and gifts to God, that He might bless them to His use.

1. The Lord's part was to bless and break the bread; yea, even to create the needed supply. This part the disciples could not perform. The Lord must begin the work. The same kind of bread was provided for all, rich and poor, young and old, women and children.

2. The disciples' part was to distribute that which He had blessed and consecrated. This is true of the missionary today. His part is to take from the hands of the Lord that which He has blessed and consecrated, and distribute it among the starving multitudes. We are not responsible for the supply; but we are responsible for its distribution to all those who are hungering and perishing for the bread of life.

3. The people's part was to sit down and eat. They had no part in the provision, neither its distribution; but only to take from the hands of the disciples and eat. This is an illustration of the part obedience plays in our salvation. "When all had eaten to the full, much was left," illustrating the superabundance of Christ's salvation.

IV. The Effect (v. 14).

The people recognized Him at once as the Prophet who should come. They believed Him for His works' sake.

Must Tread the Path

Death's but a path that must be trod, if men would ever pass to God.—Thomas Parnell.

On the Way

Merely being headed in the right direction doesn't get you any place. You have to move if you want to arrive.

Charity

Charity is a virtue of the heart and the hands.—Addison.

CAKES

with that "fresh air" taste

Delicious—and so beautiful in their even shape and coloring. And little wonder! For they were baked with "fresh air"—in the wonderful oven of the Estate Gas Range. The fumes of burning gas never enter this oven—only fresh air, heated and sterilized by the exclusive Estate method, touches the food.

And this heated fresh air is distributed so uniformly throughout the oven that no matter in what part you place your baking, the same uniform results are certain. No "pot-watching", no shifting pans—the oven ends all this worry.

Decide today you'll be one of the many thousands of good cooks using the Estate. We'll gladly show you the range and all its features.

Sick Poultry Can Be Cured Any Season of the Year.

Circleville, O., R. F. D. 6,
September 29, 1924.

Mrs. Edward H. Wardell, winner of Grand Sweep Stakes for best dozen eggs in show in Ohio State university, held February, 1924, says:
Mr. F. L. Fickardt, Dear Sir:—
I am only too glad to recommend Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops to any one interested in poultry, as the best preventative for contagious diseases I know of, on the market today. About three years ago cholera broke out in my flock of young chickens, which were then about six weeks old, and weighing about 1½ pounds. There were 175 birds in this flock. As soon as I discovered they were sick I began treating them according to instructions of a specialist. I only lost eleven out of 175, and checked the disease in about three days. At that time Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops was recommended to me as a wonderful medicine to be used as a preventive of contagious diseases. At that time I began using the Drops and have not had an epidemic since, altho I lose one or two now and then from common causes such as apoplexy, egg-bound, etc. I begin giving it to the chicks when they are quite young and from that time on they are never without it. At the present time I am shipping two cases of eggs a week and have been for the last six months. from my flock of 180 hens and I attribute this high egg production to the healthy condition of my flock. I always grade and candle my eggs and I have attained such a degree of perfection that I have less than three per cent of my eggs that do not run over the specified weight of 24 ounces to the dozen. Sincerely,
Mrs. Edward H. Wardell.

FIGHT 100 YEARS FOR $100,000,000

Death May End Legal Battle Waged Many Years.

Berlin.—Heir to more than $100,000,000, lying ready in the Bank of England, and yet having to live on alms of $1.50 a week.

That is the queer fate of Bernhard Goetze of Leipzig, who just now is the principal in a weird inheritance fight which has strained the legal apparatus of three continents and has stretched through nearly a whole century.

The story of this fight is told by the Neue Leipziger Zeitung, which says it bases it on legal documents.

The fortune was amassed by three bearers of the name of Goetze who left Germany between 1787 and 1819. One, Johann Friedrich Goetze, went to Batavia, amassed a fortune in lands and ships valued at $40,000,000. When he died he left it all to his widow.

The widow married a cousin of her husband, Joann Christoph Goetze, who had also gone to Batavia, had entered the Dutch army service and had become governor of Batavia and commander of the Dutch troops.

Get Second Fortune.

The couple quit Batavia and went to Cape Town, where they arrived just in time to receive the inheritance left to them by Johann Christian Goetze, another cousin. This cousin had gone to the Orange Free State, had dug for gold, and had found 16,000 pounds of it, all of which, in blinking bar gold, now went to the former governor of Batavia.

This croesus died in Cape Town in 1831, leaving his immense fortune in gold, in lands, in ships and mines to his parents and brothers and sisters in Germany. But these never learned of their good fortune.

Finally in 1867, a sister, Mrs. Erdmuth Goetze, who had married her cousin of the same name, learned of the inheritance through a newspaper notice.

Immediately, the hunt after the inheritance began. More than 317 bearers of the name of Goetze laid claim to it. After years of legal battles, it was decided that the heirs were Mrs. Erdmuth Goetze and her children, of whom two were still alive, Bernhard Goetze and Mrs. Louise Teichmann.

The government of Saxony took a hand in the case. In agreement with the British crown treasury, under whose management the estate had increased to $100,000,000, a Doctor Mueller of the Saxon courts was installed as administrator. In 1872, he was relieved of that, however, because it was charged that he furthered the interests, not of the real heirs, but those of another branch.

Later the English consul general at Leipzig, Charles Crave, took the matter in hand, but made little progress because the heirs could not agree among themselves.

Proves Her Claim.

In 1875 Mrs. Erdmuth Goetze went to London where she received documents proving that the Cape Town courts had awarded the inheritance to her and her children, but received no money.

A trip to Mrs. Teichmann at London also proved vain.

In 1900 a man named Bode received a part of the inheritance. This led to another legal battle, in which Bode's lawyer won.

Four trips of Bernhard Goetze to London proved fruitless because he was unable to present his claims in a form that the English courts would accept.

A complaint to the then Prime Minister Balfour brought the reply that he should employ an English lawyer, but as Goetze is penniless, this is vain service.

Mystery is added to the case by the fact that documents in the files show Mrs. Teichmann had died in the meantime. Goetze maintains, however, his sister is still living as wife of a bank director in Stuttgart.

Waiting and fighting for his inheritance, Bernhard Goetze meanwhile has grown to be seventy-nine years old.

He is supported in his fight by a "Goetze association," which was founded in 1911 and consists of about thirty members. Every member pays 5 cents a week, which goes to Goetze and on which this heir to millions lives.

In return, however, the association is to get 10 per cent of Goetze's inheritance—if he ever gets it.

Goetze himself says only the conviction of his legal right keeps him going and he firmly believes that some day the $100,000,000 will come to him.

Volcano Driving All Inhabitants Off Island

Manila.—The entire population of Bubuyan island, one of the Bubuyan group, about 100 miles north of Luzon, may be transferred to another island nearer the coast of Luzon.

An active volcano has driven the 200 inhabitants from their homes down to the water's edge, and frequently they are compelled to take to their canoes to escape the showers of rocks and the lava which stream down the mountain side.

An American Red Cross investigator, who is now on his way to the island with relief supplies, will ascertain if the inhabitants want to move to another island where agricultural conditions are better. If the people are willing to move the Red cross will assist them in establishing homes on another island.

EGYPTIAN CROESUS PRISONER 26 YEARS

Prince Ahmed in Insane Asylum Near London

London.—Languishing in an insane asylum here is a multi-millionaire Egyptian nobleman who considers himself a modern Monte Christo. The man is his highness, Prince Ahmed Selfeddin, one-time brother-in-law of King Fuad of Egypt and the possessor of an income of more than $500,000 a year.

For 22 years he has been kept in an asylum in the outskirts of London, with only an occasional outing in an automobile, and before that he served a four year's prison sentence in Egypt for attempting to shoot King Fuad, then Prince Fuad.

Shot Brother-in-Law.

Prince Ahmed, is descended from Ibrahim Pasha, second son of Mehmet Ali, who in the days of the great Napoleon conquered Egypt by intrigue and battle. His sister was married to Prince Fuad. In 1898, after she had told him something about her husband which enraged him, Prince Ahmed seized a revolver and fired at his brother-in-law, wounding the latter.

He was arrested, tried by an Egyptian court for attempted murder and sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. This term was afterward reduced to four years. In addition he had to pay the expenses of Prince Fuad's illness, which cost nearly $10,000.

After serving his sentence in an Egyptian prison, Prince Ahmed was brought to England, declared insane and placed in the asylum where he has been ever since. Prince Fuad had, meanwhile, divorced Prince Ahmed's sister, and she disappears from the story.

Mother Awaits His Return.
But there is an aged woman living in Constantinople, Prince Ahmed's mother, who longs for the return of her son and has never ceased to work for his release from the asylum. Time after time she applied to the British government, but without success. Now that Egypt is, at least nominally, an independent country, she is trying to gain their support for her son's release.

Prince Ahmed's devoted companion in the asylum is his English manservant. The prince's vast estates in Egypt are larger than an English county and bring him a yearly revenue of more than $500,000. Ever since his conviction, however, his property has been officially administered for him.

Royal Mounted Again Runs Down Quarry

Prince Rupert, B. C.—The end of a long, long trail which three members of the Royal Canadian Mounted police have been following since early in June, and which had led them through more than a thousand miles of the untamed northland of Canada, where canoes and pack dogs were the only means of transportation, was almost in sight when the three left here aboard the steamship Princess Alice for Vancouver with five Indian prisoners.

The Indians, said to be virtually savages, are charged with the murder of a seventeen-year-old Indian boy whom other members of his tribe suspected of practicing witchcraft. According to the story told, the boy was hanged, head down, and stoned to death.

A young girl of the tribe, likewise suspected of witchery, is said to have been suspended for three days and nights by one foot and one hand, as a result of which she was crippled.

The prisoners live chiefly on meat regarding bread with suspicion.

Whole Village Converted

New York.—Salvation Army headquarters here received word from Commandant Howard McGrath and Capt. Samuel McGill of Plainfield, N. J., that the entire population of Saultpoint, N. J., a mill community five miles from Plainfield, had been "captured" and enrolled under the army flag.

Girls Build Fortune in Oklahoma Desert

Cooley, Okla.—Packing their dunnage and crossing the plains of Kansas in a covered wagon to their new home in the wilds of Oklahoma, Miss Beatrice Cooley and Emma Blampied, both of Hutchinson, Kan., 20 years ago took up what seemed a worthless claim to conquer their world of dreams.

The two women, in a country pillaged by outlaws, courageously built a store and post office in connection with their home on a little claim where the roads crossed and named it Cooley, Okla. One girl would care for the trade while the other sat behind a curtain, rifle on her knee, prepared for invaders.

Through hard work and their undying spirit the girls converted a portion of that cattle ranch into rich acres of orchard, vineyard, chicken run and sweet clover.

Wearing overalls, doing all their own work, Miss Cooley, whom the town is named after, and Miss Blampied have conquered their dreams.
